

3B. Reports

Puzzle by: David Morgan-Mar
Difficulty: Easy

cisra Puzzle Competition 2010 - CiSRA's 20th Anniversary
<http://puzzle.cisra.com.au>

Followed leads on possible cult-like activity involving children at a large, old house. Greeted at door by tall, imposing butler. Only children present were a boy and his younger sister, evidently much loved by their parents, uncle, and grandmother. House felt creepy but no evidence of any wrongdoing. Went over with family pets.

Attended a large mansion following complaints that residents were engaging in "hunting and shooting" in the back yard. Owners were not home at time of investigation. Discovered some antique shotguns in the back of a vintage Oldsmobile truck in the garage. Guns were so old they were obviously collector's items, like the truck. Family

Drawn to suburban home by reports of a leather-clad biker lurking in the vicinity. Attended the domicile in question and apprehended a male matching description, late 20s, dark hair, leather jacket. Turned out suspect was boarder living in room above family's garage.

Helped with major investigation into gunshot incident at country mansion. Owner seriously wounded. Suspicion on victim's sister-in-law, but he declined to press charges, apparently because of close family

Grilled NASA astronaut over various strange occurrences reported by a superior officer. Suspect lives alone, but apparently has female housekeeper. Found no evidence of unusual behaviour or illegal activities. (Keep file open on superior officer - may be unstable.) Attempted to locate any family but none credited.

Breach of peace at a two-storey dwelling owned by a Mrs Brown. Two lodgers, a young newspaper reporter and his uncle, implicated in loud explosions and other strange noises on property. Attempted to enter garage, but reporter emerged and explained uncle was working on a bit strange but reporter said his side of the family

Complaint from resident concerning excessive noise from neighbour's stable. Investigated stable, found nothing but a horse and owner's architectural studio adjoining. A radio was present, but switched off. The owners of the house, a young man and his wife, denied any knowledge of strange goings-on in their stable. Please

Entered downtown apartment block to check on apparent domestic disturbance. Found zany redhead, Cuban husband, and infant boy, engaged in practical joke contest with neighbours. Let all concerned off with warning. "No way to raise a family!"

Memo:
From: Chief
To: Administration Officer

I found these old reports in a folder in the archives. They're a mess! There are vital details missing from all of them. Put them in some sort of order and get me the name of the officer who wrote them!

